GWP Stine, GMP Villalva proud to serve Eagles

Reaching the most prominent position in the Fraternal Order of Eagles requires decades of hard work and dedication. This year, we honor two longtime Eagles who have helped the organization make a difference as they take on the task of serving as Grand Presidents for the 2012-2013 fraternal year.

Grand Worthy President Ron Stine, a member of Cadiz, Ohio, #2162, joined the Eagles in 1978 and immediately dedicated himself to the organization.

“I had just moved to Cadiz and a good friend of mine asked me to join the Eagles,” Brother Stine said. “I could tell it was a great place to go so I joined and that’s where Pat introduced me to my wife, Linda. She worked with Pat and joined the same time I did.”

After rising through the local chairs, Brother Stine served the state Aerie for a number of years before becoming Ohio State President for the 1995-1996 fraternal year. In 2002, he was inducted as a member of the Ohio State Aerie Hall of Fame and the following year, Brother Stine joined the Grand Aerie as Grand Inside Guard.

His motto for the 2012-2013 fraternal year is “Keep the Pace, Win The Race, Team Up For Membership.” A noted NASCAR enthusiast, Brother Stine is encouraging Aeries everywhere to stay ahead of the pack in their efforts to bring new minds to the organization during his year of service.

“I want to make sure people appreciate the F.O.E. and their brothers and sisters here,” Brother Stine said. “We have to work better together and create more harmony. We need to believe in God, believe in our families and believe in the F.O.E. Our purpose is to help others and I want to reinforce that.”

His chosen charity for the year is
When Grand Worthy President William P. Wetherald swings the gavel and opens the International Grand Aerie Convention at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia on August 14, he will be setting in motion a chain of events which will be a large part of the permanent history of the Eagles.

The Convention will, for one thing, mark the official birth of the Grand Auxiliary. Ladies’ Auxiliary representatives from all over the jurisdiction will be attending the first national convention of the group. The ladies will join with the men in a joint opening ceremony. Auxiliary sessions will be held in the Benjamin Franklin Hotel.

When Philadelphia’s Mayor Joseph S. Clark Jr., and Pennsylvania’s Governor John S. Fine welcome the delegates, they will be doing more than greeting an ordinary fraternal conclave. They will also be offering Eagles and their families the hospitality of one of the nation’s greatest cities and commonwealths, and extending to them a friendly invitation to enjoy a region rich in history and full of great possibilities for an enjoyable visit.

Convention chairman is Norman J. Gidley, who was chairman of the Chaplains’ Memorial Chapel Committee. Co-Chairman of the convention is John A. McCarthy, chairman of the Memorial Foundation Trustees. Their committee is arranging a full entertainment program featuring, among other activities, conducted tours to the many points of interest with which Philadelphia abounds.

Philadelphia being only a short distance from such vacation meccas as New York, Atlantic City and Washington D.C., it is expected that many Eagle delegates will make the convention a part of a holiday trip for themselves and their families. For their convenience, convention manager William J. Fitzgerald has arranged for an ample number of connecting hotel rooms with bath, suitable for families of four to six, and at reasonable terms.

It is premature to announce the convention speakers now, but it is known that the delegates will hear men of international prominence.

One of the high spots of the 1951 convention was the appearance of Marlene Dietrich in behalf of the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund. It is practically certain that this year’s convention will be visited by some similarly great star in the entertainment world. Baseball’s Grand Old Man, Connie Mack, a member of the Philadelphia Aerie who played a prominent part in last year’s Eagle activities honoring the national pastime, has been invited to be a guest.

“We have never had a more adequate or convenient housing situation at a Grand Aerie Convention,” says genial convention manager Bill Fitzgerald. “There are all the rooms we need, at reasonable rates and in fine hotels, within four or five blocks of convention headquarters. We have plenty of fine accommodations for degree and drill teams and quarters. The housing committee is now taking reservations for hotel rooms at convention headquarters at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel. All requests for reservations should be mailed to the committee instead of to the individual hotels.

Fitzgerald emphasized that reservations will be made only if the request is accompanied by a $10 deposit to apply on the rent for each room reserved. He suggests that, inasmuch as check-out time in the hotels is 6 p.m., reservations be made for August 13, so those who arrive on the morning of the 14th will not have to wait until after six o’clock for their rooms. The credentials committee will begin registrations in the Burgundy Room at the Bellevue-Stratford Wednesday noon, August 13.

There will again be regional banquets at the various hotels, with prominent guest speakers and outstanding entertainment programs. A mammoth class initiation is planned by both men and the women, in separate ceremonies. There will be a full quota of drill, ritualistic and quartet contests. The various state and territorial units will have headquarters, rooms and suites, and will announce their schedule of state dinners, luncheons and breakfasts.

It’s On to Philadelphia - for one of the greatest conventions in the history of the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

News & Notes

Grand Madam President Sally Villalva started her journey to the top of the Auxiliary in 1991 and has since brought great energy – and a love of shoes – to the F.O.E.

“Before I joined, my brother was a Trustee,” Sister Villalva said. “When I went to visit him at the Aerie, I would see the great work the people were doing and the money they were raising to help others. It made me want to be a part of it.”

A member of Steel City Auxiliary #3367 in Pueblo, Colo., Sister Villalva quickly became involved, elevating herself to a three-year Madam President term in Pueblo and service as Colorado State Madam President for the 2002-2003 fraternal year. In 2007, she joined the Grand Auxiliary as Grand Madam Outside Guard.

Her motto for the year is “Stepping Up For The F.O.E.” She’s encouraging Auxiliary members throughout the jurisdiction to rise up and take action in every facet of Eagledom – from membership, to leadership, to upholding the ritual – and to continue our focus and dedication to raising millions of dollars each year to support International and community charities.

“Back in the day, they always said you wouldn’t invite someone into the Aerie who you wouldn’t invite into your home,” Sister Villalva said. “I want to focus on bringing many new members to our organization, but they have to be the right members. The best way to build our organization is to find people willing to uphold all the wonderful aspects of who we are. When we focus on the quality of our members, the quantity takes care of itself.”

Sister Villalva’s goal for the year is to bring 30,000 new or re-enrolled women into the F.O.E. and to institute at least 17 new Auxiliaries. Her charity is also The Fraternal Order of Eagles Diabetes Research Center and her special project is the Pueblo Child Advocacy Center, which provides assistance to victims of child abuse in her hometown.
Nominate active military personnel today! Nominations are accepted through the end of July.

For the fifth consecutive year, The Fraternal Order of Eagles will be accepting goods from local Aeries and Auxiliaries and shipping them out to Eagles or their family members active in the military. Donations are accepted in the month of September and are shipped to the recipients before the Holiday Season. If there is someone you know who could benefit from Operation Eagle, fill out a form today. This simple process could make a group of soldiers’ Holiday Season a little brighter.
