From The Archives: Fall 1994

By Hon. Robert Bergland, former U.S. Agriculture Secretary.

It will be 50 years ago next April when President Franklin D. Roosevelt died in office. During those intervening 50 years, his record as president has been examined, measured and judged by all in the passage of time. It has been decided that this president merits a national memorial.

A Franklin D. Roosevelt Memorial has been authorized to be built on the shores of the Potomac River, in Washington, D.C. There will be four sections to this structure, each one representing each term of the Roosevelt presidency. That was a very eventful period in the history of the United States of America. The Great Depression, World War Two. Some of us are old enough to remember those experiences and more. But our children aren’t. And as time goes on, they’ll become faded in the memories, and so it has been decided that it would be appropriate now, a half-century later, to erect a monument to those programs and to that era so that all might remember.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt was one of six Eagle presidents of the United States of America. He was a member of the Eagles, and proud of it. He gave the Fraternal Order of Eagles high credit and praise for the efforts Eagles launched in laying the groundwork for what became the Social Security Act of 1935. As a matter of fact, President Roosevelt was so grateful for your support at the crucial juncture that he gave thevigraphy pen that now resides in the archives of your Order.

And so it is with great pleasure that I accept a contribution from the Eagles in the amount of $50,000, to finance a portion of the memorial that would have pleased President Franklin D. Roosevelt immensely.

For it would please him to know that there will be an Eagle Alcove, dedicated to the Fraternal Order of Eagles, in this memorial. The Eagles, partners with President Roosevelt in so many programs that reshaped America, deserve this unique honor.

On behalf of the Franklin D. Roosevelt Memorial and the ideals that FDR and the Eagles shared, I thank you.
